INCORPORATION OF SIXTEEN
NEW POWER COMPANIES MEANS
A BIGGER WEST PENN SYSTEM*Expansion to New Sections of Fayette, Greene,
Washington*INDICATES NEW DEVELOPMENTS*Cheat River Power Plant Will Be Completed. An Official Says: Dams and Generating Station Once Started by Kuhn to Be Built as Planned.

The approval by the State Public Service Commission of the incorporation of a score of new power companies in Fayette, Greene and Washington counties within the past week paves the way for the ultimate extension of the West Penn line to sections of Southwestern Pennsylvania, hitherto untouched. By the incorporation of these companies, the West Penn is in on the ground floor with first rights to serve the people of these communities.

Among the companies formed are the following, their territory being indicated in the list: Henry Clay Power Company, Springfield Power Company, Sattick Power Company, Stewart Power Company, Wharton Power Company, Markleysburg Power Company, all in Fayette county; Grayville Power Company, Center Power Company, Kishill Power Company, Jackson Power Company, Gilmore Power Company, Springfield Power Company, Mount Morris Power Company, Aleppo Power Company, Morris Power Company, and Wayne Power Company, all in Greene county; as well as half a dozen in Washington county.

Eventually the towns and townships whose names are attached to these companies will be given electric service by the West Penn. Inquiry at the Connellsville offices as to the possibility of a new development to furnish power for this new territory elicited the information that the Cheat river dam and power station would likely be completed. The price of coal is a big item of expense in the manufacture of electric energy, an official stated, when a plant like the one at Fayette consumes 14 cars a day. The development of a water-power plant is bound to come and the Cheat river proposition has been by no means abandoned.

The Cheat river development was undertaken by the West Penn several years ago when the Kuhn still controlled the company. When they became financially embarrassed work had to be stopped. Lack of money, not any doubt as to its feasibility, the official said, was the cause. Two dams were to be constructed, one above the other, on Spruce creek, and a big power plant was to be built on the banks of the Cheat, on the border line between Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Work was stopped on short notice after the Kuhn had been partly completed. About $750,000 worth of concrete forms are still in place on the site of the big power plant.

MORE MINERS OUTKnob and Diamond Workers Join in the Protest Against Officials.

The number of miners idle in the Monongahela Valley on account of misunderstandings on the new wage agreement has increased. Yesterday the miners at the Knob and Diamond mines at West Brownsville declined to go to work. There are now 27 idle miners in the district all of which will probably not return to work until after the convention of the local unions in Pittsburgh on May 25.

It is said that an effort will be made at this convention to oust the district officials whom the miners claim exceeded their authority by making concessions in the wage agreement.

Special in This Country.
WASHINGTON, May 19.—Protest against the provision of the revised army bill reported out by the Senate and House conference which appropriates $20,000,000 for a nitrate plant was entered by Senator George T. Oliver before the action of the Senate in adopting the report was taken last evening.

Senator Oliver, in voicing his disapproval of this provision, pointed out that he was willing to vote for the bill that the country might be provided a propaganda measure, even though in so doing he might have to sacrifice somewhat even in matters of principle.

Replying to an assertion of Senator Underwood of Alabama, that the "preparation" suggested by him was not practical, Senator Oliver replied: "I am not proposing to prepare at all. I am proposing that the government shall interest its citizens with the duty of preparing, as they will prepare, if you will allow individual enterprise to have its full course."

In presenting the proposition that nitrates could be provided from the by-products of coke, which resulted in the rejoinder by Senator Underwood, Senator Oliver said in part: "I believe that before 10 years, before five years, have passed we will be in a position to obtain all the nitrates that we can possibly need in time of war for explosives and in time of peace for fertilizers by the development of an industry, the extent of which is not appreciated even by those who are intimately acquainted with the great iron and steel industries of the country. Up to within very recent years the coke necessary for our blast furnaces had produced almost entirely in what is known as the old-fashioned beehive oven. The development of the by-product coke industry is driving the beehive oven out of existence, and within a few days I heard a man familiar with all branches of the industry predict that even within five years there would be no more coke made by that process."

"As a by-product the coke oven produces ammonia, from which nitrates can be made to an almost unlimited extent. In time of war our iron and steel industry would necessarily be busy and there would be no difficulty whatever in obtaining all the nitrates we need, and an account of the great quantities which would be produced, in my opinion, the production of them would be infinitely cheaper than what it would cost either the government or private parties to produce them by extracting nitrogen from the air."

CHOOSE THREE BISHOPSRev. Welsh, Rev. Nicholson and Rev.
Leonard Are Chosen.

At the Saratoga Springs general conference, this morning, three new bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church were chosen. Dr. Herbert Welsh, president of Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware, O., was elected on the eighth ballot and Rev. Adam Leonard of Seattle, Washington, was chosen on the tenth ballot after Dr. Thomas Nicholson of New York had been selected on the ninth.

There are still four more bishops to be elected but it is expected that the deadlock which has existed for several days is now permanently broken. It requires a two-thirds vote to elect.

First Aid Meet.

FRENCH AVIATORS SUCCESSFUL IN RAIDS IN THE ARGONNE*Lieutenant Navarre Brings Down His Tenth Enemy Machine; American Flyer Wins Flight.*By Associated Press.

PARIS, May 19.—Violent fighting on a large scale was resumed on the Verdun front last night. Two fresh divisions of German troops attacked French positions at Avocourt woods and Hill 304, west of the Meuse. The war office announces the attacks in the main were unsuccessful, although the Germans obtained a footing in a small post south of Hill 287 which lies just to the east of Avocourt woods.

The Germans attempted to recapture the small fort on the northeast slope of Hill 304 which the French took on the day before but their efforts failed.

Infantry fighting was confined for the most part to that sector west of the Meuse. East of the river and in the Voivre, the artillery was active. The official statement says that the troops employed by the Germans in their attacks had recently been sent to the Verdun front.

Sub-lieutenant Navarre, one of the best known French aviators, who recently engaged in a fight with five German aeroplanes, brought down the tenth machine in an aerial combat at Dolant, in the Argonne.

Corporal Kiffin Beckwith, of Atlanta, a member of the American flying squadron, yesterday attacked a German aeroplane operating near Hartmannsweilerkopf. The German machine was brought down in flames.

ITALIANS LOSE GROUND.
BERLIN, May 19.—Austrian troops are continuing to advance at points on the Italian front, the official statement of May 18 says, although the Italians are undertaking vigorous counter strokes. The Austrians crossed the Lupa valley and took Costabella.

The positions captured had been in the hands of the Italians for months. They include points to which the Italians attached the greatest strategic importance.

For example, there fell into the hands of the Austrians on Polgoria plateau, an order issued by an Italian division commander in which the plateau was characterized as a position of fundamental importance to be held at all hazards.

HOLD CADET DRILLTurnout Not Very Strong, However;
Next Drill on Thursday

The cadet company held a drill at the armory last evening with members of Company D. The turnout was not very good but owing to a mixup in the dates nothing better could be expected. The boys' regular night is Wednesday but on that evening it was impossible to get into the building. It was announced that the drill would be held last night but many did not hear of it. Last evening's was the first drill held for three weeks.

Drill next week will be held on Thursday. The cadets will have to show a stronger turnout or the company may be dropped. Thursday evening is Company D practice night also, and the cadets will have the advantage of the corporals and guides, a point on which they have been guided.

PLAN "FIRE PREVENTION DAY" WHEN NEW APPARATUS COMES

Superintendent of Public Safety M. L. Pryor is making inquiries of the American La France Fire Engine Company as to the probable date of delivery of Connellsville's new $62,500 motor ladder truck with a view of conducting a "Fire Prevention Day" as soon as the new apparatus arrives. Mr. Pryor's plan has not been fully worked out but his idea is to interest towns and cities in this section in a sort of festival, the purpose of which will be the emphasizing of the need of precaution against fires.

A parade of fire departments from Uniontown, Scotland, Mount Pleasant, South Connellsville and all of the other towns in this section that have fire protection organizations, is planned. The idea has so many possibilities that there is a likelihood that more distant places will participate.

Mount Pleasant, with two new motor trucks, Uniontown, with its fine motor truck, Scotland, with all its fire equipment, and Connellsville, with three pieces of motor fire apparatus, make an imposing array in themselves.

Connellsville's new truck will be delivered some time in July. By that time the present East Side truck will be mounted on a Pope Hartford chassis, thus driving the city two fine new motor-driven trucks, in addition to the West Side truck, which is still doing business in the same efficient manner as the old one.

The "Fire Prevention Day" idea meets with the favor of all local firemen and it is expected that those in other towns will be just as enthusiastic.

POLICE EFFORTS TO STOP SPITTING ON THE SIDEWALK FAIL.

A month or so ago, Mayor Marietta issued instructions to the patrolmen to arrest all persons spitting on the sidewalks. The newspapers made no mention of the order in order that the spitting public might be caught unawares and examples made of some of the offenders. Not an arrest has been made to date, yet there are just as many stains on the sidewalks from expectorations as there ever were.

Complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's primary election in Philadelphia show that Hiram M. Kephart of Connellsville, Republican nominee for State Treasurer, carried the Quaker City by a majority of 100,000 or more.

Later reports indicate the election of nine pledged and three pledged delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention. The following are probable winners in the delegate-at-large contest:

Unpledged—Senator Dolse Penrose, John Wannamaker, James Elverson, Jr., and Alvin B. Johnson, of Philadelphia; Senator George T. Oliver, Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong, Edward W. Babcock, and David L. Gillespie, of Pittsburgh; and W. Harry Baker, of Harrisburg.

Pledged—Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh and W. Froelund Kendrick, of Philadelphia, and Senator William J. Burke, of Pittsburgh.

It is expected that from 50 to 55 of the 76 delegates in the state will be pledged, notwithstanding the Brumbaugh forces are claiming 44 delegates.

DISCUSS PHONE CALLS

Doctors Suggest That They Be Called by Numbers Instead of Names.

Telephone service, particularly in regard to doctors receiving call, is being discussed at length at a meeting of the Young Medical Social Club last evening at the home of Dr. R. S. McKee in Ninth street, Greenwood.

One doctor stated that yesterday he was summoned to the telephone five times by calls intended for other physicians. This is because several of the doctors' names begin with the same letter and sound very much alike over the phone, but it has caused much annoyance. As the result often sick calls are not responded to. To avoid any further annoyance the doctors say they should be called by number.

Following the discussion, Dr. McKee, the host, read an instructive paper on "Relation with the Western Medical Compensation Law." A general discussion followed. A well-appointed supper was served. All members were present. Dr. D. D. Brooks was a guest.

WESTERN MARYLAND READY TO BUY HERD BOTTOM LAND

Almost all of the preliminary steps necessary for the acquisition of portion of the Herd bottom land at Fayette station by the Western Maryland railroad for yards, have been taken and it is certain that the near future will see a number of deals consummated.

Agents for the railroad company are ready to buy the land belonging to the Herd heirs between Fayette station and Dunbar as soon as the latest option expires. A payment of $5,000 will be made as soon as the deal is consummated. Terms for the payment of the balance have been satisfactorily arranged by Washington Heid, representing the estate, and H. P. Pratt, chief engineer for the Western Maryland.

Agreements have been reached with the Dunbar township road supervisors regarding a change in the public road, with Connellsville interests who held land and stone rights along the right-of-way of the company, and with the West Penn as to the moving of its tracks back onto the hill where the viaduct crosses the valley.

Western Maryland engineers have been working for several months on surveys for the many new tracks that are to compose the yards at that point. They are now completing their plans.

NOVEL SCHEME TO GET
MOTOR CAR SPEEDERS

The chief of police of Charlelot has equipped himself with a motorcycle to which he has attached a reliable speedometer. When an automobile comes along at what appears to be beyond the speed limit, the chief trails along behind on his machine, noting the speed he attains while taking the license number of the automobile. Burgess Jenkins does the rest.

MAYOR PUTS BAN ON MOTOR CAR CUT-OUT; SPEED LIMIT*Fines for Violations of Traffic Ordinance; Vehicles to Move After 15 Minutes.

Mayor Marietta this morning issued orders to the police force to enforce the traffic ordinance, regulating the use of the cut-out on automobiles, the standing of vehicles along the curbs of the city, and the signals of the policemen on the corners of the city. Arrivals of anyone violating the ordinance after the last day of May will be made and the fine imposed will not be so light that the offender will want to return soon.

The cut-out especially is in the mayor's disfavor. He ordered that anyone using it at all on the streets of the city at any time during the day shall be promptly arrested and locked up. The noise from these cut-outs is extremely disturbing to meetings, as church services, and to all residents of the city. The fine is from $5 to $25 and the mayor will not be easy with offender that appears before him more than once.

The traffic ordinance also requires that automobiles and other vehicles be moved after standing for a period of 15 minutes. This section of the ordinance is not obeyed at all in the city and the police are going to begin a crusade against offenders at once. One doctor said that it was "adversely" part of his business to have his car standing in front of his office, but this kind of advertising will not be allowed longer.

The section for the speed limit allows a car to travel at 15 miles an hour through the city. The fine for violating this ordinance is also from $5 to $25 and will be enforced.

All cars approaching Brimstone corner are required by the ordinance to come to a complete stop until given the signal to proceed by the traffic policeman. According to the ordinance he should not give a signal to go ahead to a driver until it has been stopped.

NO WORK UNDER FRANCHISE

West Penn Has Taken No Step to Confirm Brownsville Rights.

People in South Brownsville are beginning to be somewhat concerned at the delay of the West Penn Traction Company to begin work on its franchise granted on June 5, 1915. By its terms the grant becomes void if construction work is not commenced within one year from the date of its acceptance.

The franchise was secured after a very bitter and protracted fight before the borough council. Application for a franchise in Brownsville to connect with that in South Brownsville has never been made.

Good News Grape-Nuts

This famous pure food makes up for a frequent lack of certain nourishing elements in the daily diet, which makes for mental and physical development.

These elements—the vital mineral phosphates—are found in abundance in the whole wheat and malted barley flours, from which Grape-Nuts is made. All the food values of these grains are retained in splendid proportions in this food.

Grape-Nuts comes from the wax-sealed package—crisp, delicious, ready to eat, and remarkably easy of digestion.

TRACK MEET AT SCOTSDALE ON MEMORIAL DAY

Will be Held at Local on Afternoon of May 30th.

PROF. WAUGAMAN IN CHARGE

Helpers to the Shearman in the Mills
Who Had Walked Out Are Returning to Work: Dispute Caused No Disorder: L. O. O. F. Entertainment.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, May 19.—The Ritchie
Kiwanis Club gave an entertainment in Odd Fellows' Hall last evening that was well attended. The character parts were taken care of and the entertainment opened with an orchestra selection and this was followed by a "Mother Goose" sketch in which a number of the local school children took part.
This was followed by a specialty in which Misses Francis Lohr and Zella Lowe took part. This was followed by "Cinderella" with William McDowell as the prince and Grace Jarrett as the lady who lost her slipper. Miss Edith Patton successfully portrayed Bluebeard in "Bluebeard and His Wives" and Ethel Collins taking the part of the living wife. The final scene was a camp scene. The stage was decorated in palms.

H. S. TRACK MEET.
The students of the high school are to give their first track meet at Lucks Park on Memorial Day at 3 P.
M. It promises to be a success as there is undoubtedly good material in the local schools. Prof. J. N.
Waugaman will have charge of the affair. A silver loving cup will be awarded to the student winning the highest number of points and to the class which wins the meet. The following events have been scheduled:
100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 1 mile run, high jump, pole vault, relay race, 12-pound shot put, and discus throw.

HELPERS RETURNING.
On Wednesday the helpers to the shearman walked out at the Scottsdale mills. It was stated that they had asked for a raise of 25 cents a day. Part of the men returned to work yesterday and laboring men were pressed into service so that the mill ran full and was not crippled by the affair. It was stated yesterday that the increase would likely be given the men. There was no disorder as the men quietly walked out.

Resinol Soap

a friend to tender skins
Many ill-made toilet soaps contain free alkali, a harsh chemical which tends to dry and injure the skin or hair. Resinol Soap contains absolutely no free alkali, and it is added the soothing, healing Resinol medication, which doctors have used for over 20 years in treating skin troubles. Thus it comforts tender skin, and helps nature clear the complexion and keep the hair rich, lustrous and free from dandruff. Sold at all druggists and toilet counters.

Aaron's Helpful Shopping Hints

WISE ECONOMY

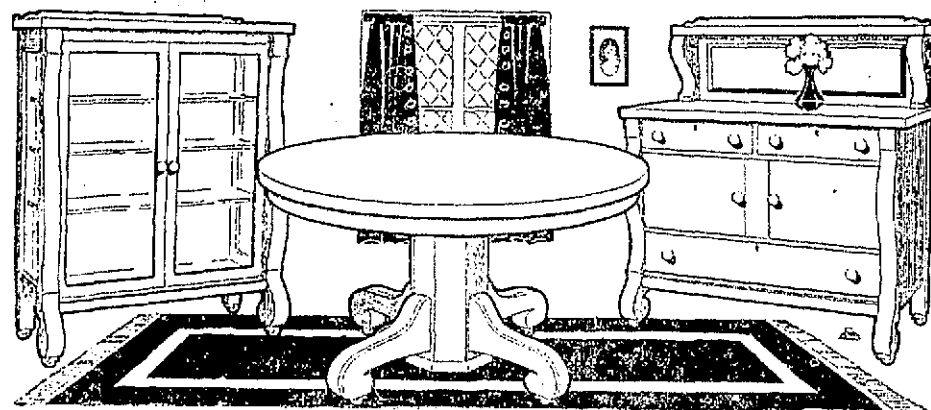

"The best is always the cheapest in the long run."
You've often heard that remark—and it's especially true in buying Furniture.

Cheapness in quality is very expensive in the end.
That is if you buy Furniture of inferior quality and workmanship—for which you may probably pay a little less—it will last but a fraction of the time that reliable Furniture will, made of good materials by expert workmen.

Aaron's always offer you Furniture that is of the best quality and workmanship—that has an enduring value and will give satisfaction. Back of every purchase you make here stands Aaron's "satisfaction guarantee."

And it's Aaron's large buying-power that enables you to buy reliable Furniture—that will last a lifetime —at no greater cost than you are asked to pay for cheaply made Furniture.

Therefore, it's wise economy to purchase at Aaron's—Connellsville's Reliable Furniture Store.

NEW YORK IS SETTING EXAMPLE FOR OTHERS IN AMERICANIZATION

New York State Takes Steps to Assimilate Its Alien Population.

TEACHER TRAINING INSTITUTES

As a Preliminary Personal Investigation and Intensive Study of the Problem Are Under Way; Co-operation With Governmental Agencies.

Americanization is a live issue in many states. New York appreciates its significance and has already taken steps on a state basis to Americanize the alien. In 1910 there were 697,000 foreign-born whites unable to speak English in that commonwealth, and 262,000 who could not read or write in any language. The New York State Department of Education has begun the first statewide campaign to abolish these disabilities. As a preliminary, personal investigations and intensive study of certain communities disclosed "dark spots" of illiteracy and "light spots" in the large industrial centers where efforts were under way to teach the foreigner English and give him some contact with American standards and ideals. A teachers' training institute for the preparation of teachers of foreigners was organized at Albany in the fall of 1915. It was so successful that it was decided to continue it upon a permanent basis as a part of the regular curriculum of the New York State College for Teachers. Co-operation with governmental and private agencies interested in educating and Americanizing the alien is already an established fact.

In view of the ebb and flow of the immigrant tide, as far as individual communities are concerned—for this foreign population largely follows the economic demands of the hour—New York is properly approaching this problem from the state point of view. It is hardly just to throw upon the community the burden of caring for this fluctuating alien group. The Empire State is thus setting an example which other of the so-called immigration states might well follow.

Recommends Chamberlain's.
"I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, having used it in my family for the past thirteen years. I have tried other remedies, but Chamberlain's is the only one that gave me permanent relief. We are never without it even when on a visit or summer outing, and I cannot say too much in praise of it," writes Emerson Demerree, Harpersville, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let Your Sore, Swollen, Aching Feet Spread Out in a Bath of
"TIZ"

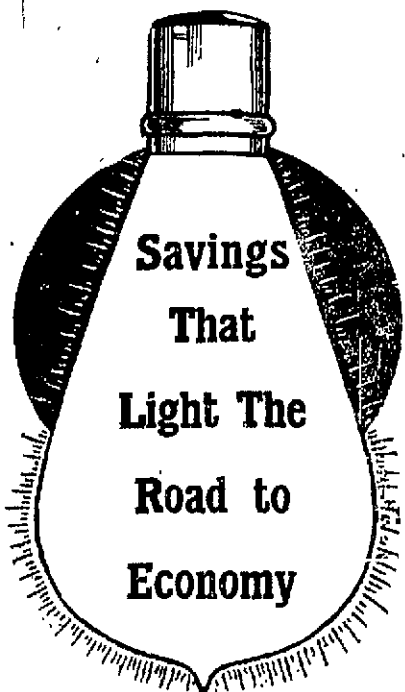

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pocked, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "TIZ" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "TIZ." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, calluses and bunions.

There's nothing like "TIZ." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous excretions which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25c box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Adv.

IF WAR CONTINUES NEW YORK WILL BE BIG DRUG MARKET

Bids Fair to Supplant London, Hamburg and Amsterdam.

EVEN DANDELION IS IMPORTED

Because of Cheapness of Foreign Cultivation, Herbs Could Not Be Profitably Grown Here Before Outbreak of the Great European Cataclysm.

One of the problems which is now confronting the pharmacists of the country and which will engage the attention of the members of the Pharmaceutical Association at the meeting next month in Reading, is the shortage of vegetable drugs which has developed in consequence of the European war.

Shortage of dyestuffs and chemical products, concerning which there has been no such aid during the past few months, bids fair to be overcome by the growing manufacture of these chemicals in this country, although the higher cost of labor and materials here won't permit a return to the former prices.

With the vegetable drugs, however, the shortage cannot so easily be made up. About one-half of our crude drugs come from foreign countries, even such common drugs as dandelion, linseed and burdock are imported because of the cheaper cost of collection abroad due to lower wages.

Some drugs, like asafetida, tragacanth, senega leaves, lycopodium, nuxvomica beans and ipecac, cannot be grown in this country at all on account of the unsuitability of the climate. Many of them come from Asia, Africa and South America, and the present shortage and high prices are due principally to lack of transportation facilities and the fact that London and Hamburg have hitherto been the great crude drug markets of the world.

With some of the drugs, however, such as Indian hemp, dog grass, Gormea chamomile, belladonna, digitalis, acacia, gentian, licorice, aniseed, yucca and sage, in which the price changes have also been marked, cultivation is possible in this country, and even profitable at the present prices. Ginseng and golden seal have been profitable drug crops in some sections of Pennsylvania and it is not unlikely that some of the drugs named above may also be profitably grown in this State. In fact, it is positively known that we can grow some of these drugs and that under cultivation they will be of much higher potency than those which have heretofore come from abroad. When the war is over, if it lasts several years as predicted by some people, we may not only have more and better drugs, but it is not unlikely that New York will be found to have supplanted London, Hamburg and Amsterdam and will be the greatest drug market in the world.

For several years past the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota have successfully grown experimental crops of several of these drugs. Some of the large pharmaceutical manufacturing establishments of both the East and the Middle West have also conducted successful drug farms, and some individual growers are working in a small way, but it is evident that some kind of concerted effort must be made on a much larger scale if any real benefit is to result.

One hundred years ago, before the present great development of manufactured products, the pharmacist had to rely upon his own efforts for his supply of crude drugs and had to collect many of them himself. The present day pharmacist no longer has to do this but instead is educated in the use of the microscope by the aid of which he identifies the drugs, many of them reaching him in the powdered condition.

IF TOO FAT GET MORE FRESH AIR

Be Moderate in Your Diet and Reduce Your Weight, Take Oil

Lack of fresh air it is said weakens the oxygen carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs are hindered thereby. The heart action becomes weak, work is an effort and the beauty of the figure is destroyed.

Fat put on by indoor life is unhealthy and if nature is not assisted in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat.

Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air, breathe deeply, and get from A. A. Chamberlain's Tablets, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Watch yourself every few days and keep up the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of Kerosene is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps the digestion and even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight.—Adv.

Must Clean License Tags. The motor vehicle license authorities of Maryland have entered upon a crusade to compel motorists to keep their license tags free from mud and dirt in order that the numbers may be legible at all times.

JACOB J. SWANK PRAISES TANLAC MASTER REMEDY

Retired Business Man Feels It a Duty to Make Facts Known.

Jacob P. Swank, a retired business man, of 625 Napoleon St., Johnstown, Pa., said recently:

"I am a conservative man, and have especially been skeptical regarding endorsements of medicines of any character, although I have used many of them in attempts to obtain real relief from catarrh of the head and throat, and stomach trouble.

"I believe I had used almost everything imaginable before I took Tanlac. At night, when I slept, which was poorly, I evidently swallowed accumulations of mucus, as I invariably awakened in the morning choked and nauseated. That is the way I judge that my stomach became affected.

"My hearing became impaired and the itching in my ears became almost unbearable, and there were roaring noises also. I had a most unpleasant taste in my mouth and scarcely any appetite.

"My condition was so distressing that I had almost determined to visit a dry salt climate to gain relief. I watched the introduction of Tanlac carefully and I finally decided, if so many men and women, of evidently sound sense, used the medicine and said they were benefited, it would be worth my while to try it, although I really had no faith in it at the time.

"I was surprised, however. I began to improve rapidly under the Tanlac treatment. My whole system is now right, the accumulations in my nose and throat have disappeared, my hearing has improved, I eat better, my sleep is restful and I feel better every way. I now consider myself physically able to throw off any other symptoms.

"I am a well man and I propose to tell others of the good Tanlac has done me. I feel it is my duty to do so."

Tanlac, the master medicine that masters when everything else fails, is sold here by the Connelville Drug Co., where it can now be had.—Adv.

TWO MOTHERS TELL

How Their Sickly Children Were Made Strong and Well.

"For six years our little girl suffered from a bronchial trouble, she had no appetite, could not sleep and was so nervous that we had to keep her out of school. The doctors said nothing but a change of climate would help her. We were discouraged, when one day a friend asked us to try Vinol, and after taking six bottles she does not look like the same child. She has a fine appetite, is lively, healthy and well, and Vinol did it all." Mrs. F. E. Hulford, Iola, Kas.

Another child made strong:—"The measles left my little girl thin and delicate, and the doctor's medicine did not seem to build her up. I read about Vinol and got a bottle, and her improvement was rapid, her strength returned and she is now as well as ever." Mrs. B. Linot, Pittsburg, Pa.

We ask every Connelville mother of a frail, sickly, ailing child to try Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if it does not restore her child's normal health. Laughrey Drug Co.—Adv.

SOISSON THEATRE.

"SHOULD A WIFE FORGIVE?"—The Equitable Company presents the charming actress, Lillian Lorraine, at the Soisson Theatre today in the original five reel drama, "Should a Wife Forgive." It is a story of intense emotional force in which a man of the world learns a bitter lesson. Lillian Lorraine, the star of the photodrama, has achieved both stage and film prominence, and has risen to the opportunities offered by this remarkable presentation in a manner which is striking evidence of her versatility. Taking the part of a dancing girl in a western city, her career of love, intrigue, short-lived happiness, and final redemption after a pistol duel in the dark between two of her lovers, in which she is wounded, form only a part of a well-worked-out plot which will permit no relaxation of attention on the part of those who watch its progress on the screen. The little favorite, Mary Fuller, appears today in the two reel Victor drama, "The Girl Who Feared Daylight." Mary has been raised in the shadows by a cruel uncle, but learns the light and happiness from a militant lover, who makes her his wife. "The Bankruptcy of Dogs & Shirts" is an L-Ko comedy with Allen Howell and Ray Griffin in the leads. It is a shower of fun. The Animated Weekly No. 18 has the "Requiem of the Panama Canal." In Villa's Home City, "Spring Housecleaning in Pittsburg," and many more special features. Tomorrow, the great actor, Robert Warwick, is presented by the World Film Corporation in the five reel wonderful play, "The Supreme Sacrifice."

GLOBE THEATRE.

"OUT OF THE DRIFT"—Presenting the irresistible Marjorie Clark, is featured today at the Globe. "Out of the Drift" is a unique photoplay in five acts presented by the Famous Players Film Company. The broadest of the great outdoor drama has been broadened into the picture which is a stirring drama of the Swiss Alps. In this great tale of the towering peaks and deep sunken valleys the dramatic star plays the most thrilling role which she has ever enacted since "Helene of the North." The picturesque grandeur of Alpine surroundings has been used as a background. "Out of the Drift" is the story of a little Swiss shepherdess who innocently falls under the spell of a rogue. He persuades her to go to London with him in the belief that they will be married there. But Rudolph, an Alpine guide, who has long been in love with Elsie, discovers the intended elopement and while searching for Elsie in the girl's cabin he sets him in a perilous position on the edge of a precipice and cuts the rope which is his only means of safety. Elsie takes the injured man back to the cabin and nurses him back to health. A great avalanche sweeps down upon the lonely cottage, completely burying it and Elsie. As Rudolph is about to take advantage of Elsie's helplessness, Rudolph, the guide, comes to her rescue. The innocence of Elsie and the loyal devotion of her mountain lover awaken the better side of the stranger's nature. He devotes himself to chivalry and later marries Elsie. Miss Clark is supported by William Courtleigh, Jr., J. W. Johnston, Albert Grant, Kitty Brown, Florence Johnson and other well known screen stars.

Henriksen of Boston Red Sox Is Hard Luck Ball Player

THIS SPEAKER'S services are sadly missed by the Boston Red Sox. The early showing of Bill Carrigan's aggression, especially the attack, is not nearly as good as it was when Speaker was a member. Olat Henriksen, who has been holding down 'Trix' place in the outfield, is not Speaker by far. It is a pity that a brilliant player like Olat Henriksen was forced to remain on the bench as a utility man for so many seasons, says a critic. After waiting five years for a chance to break in as a regular Henriksen has taken on so much weight that he never will be the star he would have proved himself if he had been with a team not so well supplied with outfielders. He would have been a regular in almost any outfield in the country but his own team and Detroit. Playing substitute for the Speaker, Hooper and Lewis combination injured a wonderful ball player.

"Iron may be good for the blood of some," remarked the worm as the anchor threaded the hook through him gently, "but I fear it will be the death of me."
And yet the fish that swallowed the iron a little later was quite carried away with it.

BERRY IS SOME ATHLETE.

Penn All Around Champion Star in Every Department.

In every school there's a boy who can do any athletic stunt from shooting marbles to pole vaulting with a natural ease. This all round boy never has to train seriously for his athletic work, for it's just born in him to excel in sports. Just such a schoolboy was Howard Berry, the young man who has twice won the intercollegiate pentathlon championship for the University of Pennsylvania. When Berry was a high school lad he played football, basketball and baseball and was on the track team as well. Berry's fame as an infielder when he was still in high school spread far and wide, and so after the game one day a stranger approached the young Pennsylvanian and offered him a sum of money—more than he had ever possessed—if he would sign a paper. It was a big league scout, and Berry refused. It cannot be said yet that Berry is as great an all round athlete as Jim Thorpe was in his amateur days, for the simple reason that, besides being good at about everything, the Indian was a star in individual events as well. Thorpe cleared six feet five inches in the high jump and did close to twenty-four feet in the long jump, both wonderful performances for a specialist, let alone an all round performer. Berry and Thorpe stand side by side in one respect, though. Both can run. It is a well known fact that the long run is the bane of every man who tries for all round honors, but not for Berry and Thorpe.

HOWARD BERRY OF PENN.

Berry is even more remarkable than Thorpe as a runner. He's so good at middle distance, in fact, that he won a place on one of Penn's indoor relay teams last winter.

Berry is a rattling good football player, too, despite the natural handicap of light weight. Penn's all round star does not weigh 160 pounds, but he made it interesting for the quarterback candidates on Franklin field last fall and just missed landing the job of piloting the plays of the Quaker team. On the diamond he's the next thing to a big leaguer.

—study it for yourself—ride it—before you can appreciate why we claim it is wonderful!

You must see it verify our claim—see any stock model actually go through its extraordinary performances.

You must get a demonstration of the new Indian Powerplus motor. That will give you a better and more convincing idea of Twin Cylinder efficiency than a million words could give you.

Go right outdoors with it. Note how clean it is—how efficient. Listen to its velvety action while it does 70 miles an hour right before your eyes!

Watch it skin up a hill with an ease that defies duplication.

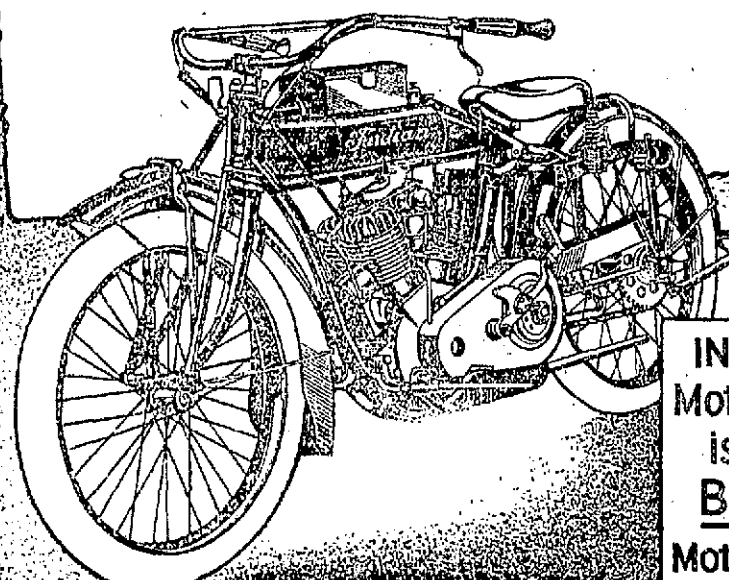

The Los Angeles Police Department wanted 37 1916 Indians with Powerplus motor—IF they proved up to required speed and efficiency.

Every one of the 37 stock machines showed a speed of at least 75 miles an hour—with a single adjustment before or after the test!

That's why we say the Indian is wonderful. We claim the legitimate use of the word, and the Indian never fails to make good our claim.

We repeat—see this wonderful machine with its wonderful Powerplus motor. Ask for an actual performance.

Dan laughed. "As I understand the situation, you won't have a dollar unless we make the crossing."

"Right," O'Neil smiled cheerfully. "The life of the S. B. and N. depends upon it. I'd give $10,000 for your right ankle."

"You can have it for nothing, chief. I'd give you the whole lot and present it to you," Dan declared earnestly.

Murray took his hand in a hearty grip. "Perhaps I'll be able to save you some time," he said simply. "Anyhow I'll look out for the chance. Now, spend the evening with the girls and leave in the morning. I'll be down as soon as I can travel to watch the light from the side lines."

CHAPTER XII.

Eliza and O'Neil.

As the days wore on and Murray remained helpless his luncheon became acute, and on the fourth morning he determined to leave at whatever cost in pain or danger to the injury. He gave orders, therefore, to have a boat prepared and allowed himself to be carried to it. The foreman of the bridge crew he delegated to guide the girls down across the moraine, where he promised to pick them up. The men who had come with him he sent on to the entrance where Dan had been.

"Aren't you coming with us?" asked Natalie, when they found him seated in the skiff with an outboard.

"It's rough going. I'd have to be carried, so I prefer this," he told them.

"Then we'll go with you," Eliza promptly declared.

Natalie paled and shook her dark head. "It's a bit too venturesome."

"So it is," Dan said, "but I'll be down there waiting when you arrive."

"If it's safe enough for you it's safe enough for us," said Eliza. Climbing into the boat, she plumped herself down with a look which seemed to defy any power to remove her. Her blue eyes met O'Neil's gray ones with an expression he had never seen in them until this moment.

"Nonsense, child," he said. "Don't be silly."

"Don't you try to put me out. I'll hang on and kick. You want me to 'leave' either," she warned him.

"I must," he protested. "Please don't insist."

She scowled like an angry boy and seized the gunwale firmly. Her expression made him smile despite his annoyance, and this provoked her more.

"In going," she asserted dully.

"This outlet had done wonders for both girls. The wind and the sunbath had tanned them, the canoe fare had lent them a hearty vigor, and they made charming pictures in their trim short skirts and sweaters and leather booted feet."

"Very well. If you are going take of your boots," commanded O'Neil.

"What for?"

"We may be swamped and have to swim for it. You see the man has taken his off," Murray pointed to the rascally Norwegian outboard, who had stripped down as if for a footrace.

"Now your sweaters."

Natalie had watched this scene with silent concern. She now scolded herself upon a boisterous and began to tug at her rubber boots.

"Here! Here! You're not going, too," O'Neil exclaimed.

"Yes, I am. I'm frightened to death, but I won't be a coward." Her shattering and strained voice left no doubt of her determination.

"She can't swim," said Eliza, and O'Neil put an end to this display of heroism with a firm refusal.

"You'll think I'm afraid," Natalie expostulated.

"Hush, you, of course we will, because you are so small. So am I, and so is Eliza, for that matter. If you can't swim you'd only be adding a foolish risk and adding to our danger. Besides, Eliza doesn't know the feel of cold water as we do."

Natalie smiled a little tremulously at recollection of the shipwreck.

"I'd much rather walk, of course," she said, and then to Eliza, "It will be a lovely ramble for us."

But Eliza shook her head. "This is material for my book, and I'll miss enough out of it to—"

"Try another on-hand," Murray suggested.

Feeling more reassured, now that the adventure had taken on a purely financial color, Natalie at length allowed herself to be dissuaded, and Eliza set herself in her seat with the disarming consciousness that she had made herself appear foolish and made O'Neil's eyes. Nevertheless she had no notion of changing her mind.

When the other girl had gone the canoe man completed his preparations by loading the contents of the skiff, a proceeding which Eliza watched with some uneasiness. O'Neil shared his resentment by a pointed silence, which nettled her, and she protested to hold her seat though the boat turned somewhat.

Word was finally given, and they swung out into the lake. O'Neil stood as best he could on his feet, his head and shoulders by means of a swelling out, while the Norwegian rowed lustily.

Bits of drift, patches of foam, fragments of ice accompanied them, bobbing alongside so persistently that Eliza feared the boat must be stationary until, glancing at the river banks, she saw them racing past like the panorama scenes in a melodrama. The same elation showed her that they were rushing directly toward the upper ramparts of Jackson gorge, as if for an assault. Out here in the current there were waves, and these increased in size as the bed of the Salmon grew steeper, until the pole boat began to rear and leap like a frightened horse. The gleaming wall ahead rose higher with every instant it overcame, a giant, crumbling cliff, towering, tremendous. Then the stream turned at right angles; they were swept along parallel with the lower face, and ahead of them for three miles stretched the cañon. The tottering wall seemed almost within reaching distance; its breath was cold and damp and clammy. O'Neil stood erect and powerful in the stern, swaying to the antics of the craft, his weight upon the oars. His eyes fixed upon the little outboard. The Norwegian strained at his oars while the sweat ran down into his open shirt. The boat lunged and wallowed desperately, rising on end, falling with perilous slips, drenching the occupants with spray. It was splendid, terrifying. Eliza clung to her seat and felt her heartbeats smothering her. Occasionally the outboard turned, and starting past her with a loud, frightened cry and affording her a glimpse of a face working with mingled fear and excitement.

Thus far the glacier had not disrupted their passage. It maintained the silence and the immobility of marble. Nothing but the snarl of the surging flood reached from its face. But with the suddenness of a rifle shot there came a detonation, louder, whiter, or than any blast of powder. The Norwegian cursed; the outboard dropped his eyes to the white face in the bow and smiled.

Half a mile ahead of them a mass of ice came rumbling down, and the whole valley rocked with the sound. Overhead the little craft fled, a dancin' frozen giant, an atom threatened by the weight of mountains. At last through the opening of the gorge became a glimpse of the flats that led to the sea. A moment later the boat swung into an eddy and came to rest, bumping against the bowlders.

O'Neil sat down, wiping his wet face. "Well, was it worth your trouble, Miss first-over-the-hill?" he asked.

"Oh, it was glorious! I'll never forget it," Eliza's cheeks were burning now, her arched hands relaxed their hold, and she drew a deep breath—the first of which she had been conscious since the start, fifteen minutes before.

"Now, on with your boots and your sweaters. We'll have an hour's wait for Natalie."

She gave a cry of surprise and offered him a glimpse of a trim ankle and a dripping foot.

"Send! They're wet, and I wriggled my toes right through my stockings. I never was so excited."

The boatman fastened the painter and resumed his outer clothing. O'Neil lit a cigar and asked:

"Tell me, why did you insist on coming?"

"I was afraid something might happen to you," he said, his brow, and she flushed. "Don't you understand? Dan would never have forgiven me, and—and I just had to come, that's all. It's cocking material for me—I thought you might upset, and I—I don't know why I insisted." She bent over her stubborn boots, hiding her face. She was fanning to the east, for suddenly she knew the reason that had prompted her. It rushed upon her like a wave of great shame. She recalled the desperate grip at her heart when she had seen him ready to leave, the wildness of her longing to share his danger, the black frown that he might meet disaster alone. It had all come without warning, and there had been no time for self-consciousness, but now she realized the truth. The poignant pain of it made her fingers clench and sent that flood of scandal to her neck and ears.

When Natalie arrived they cast off, and the remaining miles were made in a few hours.

Appleton joined them for lunch in the tent they remembered so well and pressed to be sheltered at the report of the doctor's footman. But what over may have been Natalie's fear of ridicule if promptly disappeared under his complete indifference of her wisdom in retreating from such a mad adventure. As if to put her even more at ease O'Neil was especially attentive to her, and Eliza reflected glowingly that men, after all, dislike heroines in women, that a true rescue artist or a lady balloonist inspires only a qualified admiration.

During O'Neil's absence work had progressed steadily. On his return he found the grade completed to within a few yards of Gordon's right of way. Although he was still unable to walk, he insisted upon going to the front, whether he was helped by Appleton and Happy Tom.

Into the narrow space between the end of his embankment and that of his rival's a gravel train was spilling its burden and a hundred pick and shovel men were busy. The opposing forces also seemed hard at work, but their activity was largely a pretense, and they showed plainly that they were waiting for the clash. They were a hard, tough crew, and their employer had neglected no precaution. He had erected barricades for their protection until his grade looked like a military work.

"They haven't showed any guns yet, but I'm sure they're armed," Appleton told his chief.

"I saw the place lighted by night?" O'Neil inquired.

"Oh, torches," Slater answered. "Ah!

We've been recognized. That comes from being fat, I suppose."

As he spoke a donkey engine at the right of the proposed crossing set up a noisy rattling, a thin steel cable whipped into view between the rails and forth upon the rails.

"Humph! They'd better not put much trust in that," Murray granted grudgingly.

"Don't fool yourself. It's no rubber third baby carriage," said Slater. "Our men are afraid of it."

After watching the device scuttle back and forth for a few moments O'Neil said shortly:

"Post a notice at once offering a thousand dollars for any man who cuts that cable."

"A thousand?" Appleton gasped.

"Why, I'll do it. Let me!"

"No, you won't," Slater broke in. "I'll take that on myself."

"I spoke first. It's my first chance," Dan cried.

"It's my job! I'm going!"

"Wait a minute!" O'Neil silenced the two who were glaring at each other angrily. "Don't let's have any fighting. There will be enough of that later."

"I spoke first," Dan repeated stubbornly.

"I had my mouth puckered to spit that's why," the fat man explained.

"A fellow has to spit!"

"I'd rather you wouldn't volunteer, Dan," said O'Neil.

"Why?"

"You might get hurt."

Happy Tom nudged his agreement. "Certainly! Never send a boy on a man's errand."

"And I don't want you to do it, either, Tom, for the same reason."

Slater unaided some sort of near acquiescence, but Dan would not be deterred.

"You made the offer, and I took it," he told O'Neil. "Somebody has to make the first move, and I have a particular need for exactly a thousand dollars. If they start a rumormongering we're looking for it."

"You're studying that 'go-devil' through fieldglasses for two days now, and I'll guarantee to put it out of commission before Gordon's men know what I'm about. Just forget the reward, if you like, and give me a chance."

"What's your plan?" Slater inquired eagerly, but Appleton shook his head.

"No, you don't, Tommy," he said.

"It's time to go to you."

Murray hesitated briefly, then gave his permission. "I'd rather you let one of the roughnecks take the chance, but if you insist—"

"I do."

"Then get your sister's consent!"

Slater swore manfully, as if from a heart filled with black despair.

"All right, but you'll have to get your gun cost me $1,000. Both! It would take a millionaire to afford a habit like that!" He expelled the gun violently and went grumbling off up the track.

"She won't object," said Dan lightly. "She'd offer to do the trick herself, for she's getting the spirit of the work."

When O'Neil had managed to assign the camp he began to prepare for an attack that very night, using the telephone busily. News of the coming affray quickly spread, and both the day and night shifts discussed it excitedly at supper time.

After supper the camp settled itself to wait for darkness. Night was slow in coming, and long before Appleton signified his readiness to begin the attack they were very busy. With the approach of twilight the torches along Gordon's grade began to glow brightly. Then Dan set his watch with Happy Tom's, kissed Eliza and made off across the tundra. He left the S. B. and N. at right angles and continued in that direction for a mile or more before swinging about in a wide circle which brought him well to the rear of Gordon's encampment.

Curtis Gordon was not in charge of his field forces, having left the command to his favorite Jackal, Denny. Denny's apparent contempt for the law there lurked a certain caution. He knew his rival's necessity. He appreciated his cunning, but, wishing to guard against the possibility of a personal humiliation, he retired to Kynk, where he was prepared to admit or deny as much responsibility as suited him. Denny had not forgotten O'Neil's exposure of his dishonesty, and his zeal could be relied upon. He personally knew all the men under him, he had counted them carefully, and he assured Gordon of his ability to hold his ground.

Dan Appleton from his cover measured the preparations for resistance with some uneasiness, reflecting that if Denny had the nerve to "go for him" he would undoubtedly run O'Neil's men who had not been permitted to carry guns. By the bright torchlight he could see figures coming and going along the grade like sentinels, and from within the barricades of ties he heard others talking. "The camp itself, which lay far to the left, was lighted, and black shadows were painted against the canvas walls and roofs. Some one was playing an accordion, and its wailing notes came to him intermittently. He saw that steam was up in the boiler which operated the "go-devil," although the contrivance itself was stationary. It was upon this that he centered his attention, consulting his watch nervously.

At last 10 o'clock came, bringing with it a sound which startled the nearby camp into activity. It was a sharp blast from an S. B. and N. locomotive and the gliding of car wheels. The contrivance ceased its complaint, men poured out of the hidden tents, Appleton moved quickly out from cover.

He stumbled forward through the knee deep mud and moss, hearing slightly to his right, coming upon the contrivance to make his approach. He climbed to that of the gravel train, which came slowly creaking nearer, ruckling over the uneven tracks, then down to the half submerged rails, which remained the opposing smoke. It stopped finally with headlights shining into the faces of Denny and his troops, and from the high beamed that came tumbling out a pile of pick and shovel men. During this hubbub Appleton slipped out of the mud, and climbed the gravel bed in time to see the steel cable of the ship driven, carrying the drag swiftly along the track. The cables, able propelling the contrivance ran through a metal block which was secured to a doublehead sunk between the ties, and up this post Dan hastened. He carried a cold chisel and hammer, but he found no use for them, for the pulley was topped to the deadhead. Drawing his knife he sawed at the rungs, strands. Men were all around him, but in their excitement they took no notice of him. Not until he had nearly completed his task was he discovered; then some one raised a shout. The next instant they charged upon him, but his work had been done. With a snap the ropes parted, the cable went whirling and twisting up the track, the unwieldy apparatus came to a stop.

THE MODERN TORPEDO.

How it Travels and its Effect Upon Striking a Vessel.

The present day torpedo is a very different sort of weapon from that used half a century ago. It is shaped something like a cigar and is about twenty-three feet long and twenty-one inches in diameter. It weighs considerably more than a ton and its construction costs from $5,000 to double that sum.

It is made to travel in a certain direction in a fixed time and to explode when it strikes some solid object, such as a ship's bottom. A torpedo of the largest and most modern type will tear a gaping hole in the staunchest ship ever built.

The nose or "explosive head" of a torpedo contains the deadly charge of high explosive, nitroglycerin and zincite being oftenest used.

When the torpedo strikes its target a tremendous detonation follows instantly, driving in both the enter and inner "skins" of a vessel. The hole it makes in a ship's bottom varies in size but is seldom less than ten by thirty feet.

The torpedo travels toward its victim at the rate, roughly, of about a thousand yards a minute. The distance and rate of speed have to be calculated to a nicety before the torpedo is discharged. It is kept to its destined course by perpendicular rudders in its tail.

The modern "ditcher" torpedo was first used in a naval war during the Chilean revolution of a quarter of a century ago.—New York World.

before it will be determined who is going to own a fine new Saxon "Six" Car, an Acre Garden Lot, three handsome $100 Grafonolas, and three handsome Diamond Rings, as the result of the great contest which The Courier will bring to a close at 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, May 20.

Nip and Tuck it is, and the odds favor neither. First Nip is ahead and then Tuck. Within 24 hours of the close of the Great Automobile Contest, Nip does not know whether he is going to win the car or whether it is Tuck, and vice versa. It will soon be over and then the one who has the greatest number of votes will win—whether it is Nip or Tuck.

The best laid plans of mice and men "ofttimes gang aglee" and the best laid plans of contestants sometimes do the same thing. But it is usually the candidate's fault and not due to luck. When a man starts out to do a thing and keeps at it, he usually gets there sooner or later. The route traveled may be fortuitous. There may be some rocky roads to be traveled, but he finds a way of getting there. The fine thing about it is he "keeps a-going." So, the contestants who become the owners of the prizes to be given away will get there some way and when they do get there they will know they kept at it and that was what won for them.

First Grand Prize

FRECKLES.

Now is the Time to Get Rid of Those Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription outlined below—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it at night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

DON'T GO TO BED WITH COLD FEET

Says: "Often Brings on Attacks of Acute Rheumatism."

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and people who are subject to attacks of rheumatism should never go to bed with cold feet.

A whole lot is being said about taking pills and having tablets for rheumatism and sciatica, but those who suffer sharp twinges and painful swollen joints need something powerful to overcome their piteous suffering.

Any broad-minded druggist will tell you that one-half teaspoonful of Rheumatism taken once a day is driving more rheumatism out of afflicted people than all the units on earth. Right in this neighborhood A. A. Clarke and all druggists sell large quantities of it, and it's the surest and most inexpensive remedy—about 50 cents a bottle.—Adv.

I procured the 'Favorite Prescription' and used three bottles. It helped me wonderfully. It overcame the trouble and I grew better every day. I had so much confidence in this remedy that I recommended it to my daughters. They used it with very marked benefit. We consider 'Favorite Prescription' a reliable and valuable remedy."—Mrs. C. L. Woodward, N. Broad St.
